Option 1

What does it look like to beONE in the Archdiocese of St. Louis?

It looks like student leaders at St. Vincent de Paul in Perryville who recently embodied the beONE priority of “embracing a culture of leadership” by organizing a panel discussion on the responsibility of voting with Catholic principles. Visit archstl.org/vote for information to assist you in making informed voting decisions.

Because we are more than just our fish fries...we are the Body of Christ.

Option 2

What does it look like to beONE in the Archdiocese of St. Louis?

It looks like St. Joseph School in Imperial that is working to “secure the future of Catholic education” by reducing its 2016-17 tuition due to the generosity of the entire parish community.

Because we are more than just our fish fries...we are the Body of Christ.

Option 3

What does look like to beONE in the Archdiocese of St. Louis?

It looks like the Knights of Columbus at Incarnate Word and St. Anselm Parishes who showed a true example of leadership, missionary discipleship and social responsibility by inviting homeless and at-risk men into the Catholic Men for Christ Conference through the “Honored Guest” program.

Because we are more than just our fish fries...we are the Body of Christ.

Option 4

What does it look like to beONE in the Archdiocese of St. Louis?

It looks like our Catholic schools who are working to “secure the future of Catholic education” by making financial assistance more accessible to families through a new, simplified application form for scholarships. Visit ttef-stl.org for more information.

Because we are more than just our fish fries...we are the Body of Christ.
