Historical Note

The St. Louis Preparatory Seminary was the high school department for the minor seminary of the Archdiocese of St. Louis. It opened in 1900 as a day school within the Kenrick Seminary at 19th St. and Cass Ave. and was administered as a department of the Seminary by the Vincentians. When Kenrick Seminary relocated to the new building in Shrewsbury in 1916, the Preparatory Seminary became a separate institution at 4244 Washington Blvd. In 1927, a tornado destroyed a large part of the building and the school moved to St. Bridget of Erin Parish temporarily.

In 1931, the Preparatory Seminary was revised to accommodate the third year of high school through two years of philosophy. It reopened at the new building in Shrewsbury built by architect Henry P. Hess. The building is now home to Kenrick-Glennon Seminary at 5200 Glennon Drive. The first two years of high school were assigned to the Cathedral Latin School, which opened in the renovated building at 4244 Washington Blvd.

In 1947, the Preparatory Seminary again reformed to incorporate the first two years of high school and the Cathedral Latin School was closed. The philosophy department was reestablished at the Kenrick Seminary. Thus, the Preparatory Seminary encompassed four years of high school and two years of junior college.

In 1957, the Preparatory Seminary moved to its own new building at 5200 Shrewsbury Ave. and reformed as a four-year high school only. Cardinal Glennon College became a four-year college of liberal arts. The seminary system consisting of the Preparatory Seminary, Cardinal Glennon College and Kenrick Seminary thus operated on a 4-4-4 year basis.

With the increase of vocational recruits, Archbishop Joseph Cardinal Ritter opened a second seminary high school in 1965 in north St. Louis County called St. Louis Preparatory Seminary North. The school in Shrewsbury was renamed St. Louis Preparatory Seminary South. When "Prep North" closed in 1987, it was consolidated with "Prep South," which consequently dropped the "South" from its name. In 1991, Archbishop John L. May closed the Preparatory Seminary as part of a larger consolidation of the seminary system due to mounting costs and decreased enrollment.

Series 3: Photographs and Artifacts, 1931-1989

Photographs include images of the building and grounds, activities, events, students, faculty, staff and sports. There are few dates on the photographs, so they were roughly grouped in categories according to their original boxes. Thus, the dates are vague and overlap across folders. Several artifacts include Blackhawks gym bag and jacket, a "Prep" baseball hat and a St. Louis Prep letterman jacket. For images of the early school at 4244 Washington Blvd., see the Cathedral Latin School Records (RG 03 D 08).

Series 4: Student Transcripts, 1900-1991

Cumulative records of students.
